Risk and Reward Profile

Low Risk
Low Return

High Risk
High Return

The estimated risk profile of the Feeder Fund Raiffeisen Sustainable Solid is closely related to the risk profile of the Master Fund. Based on the historical data of returns of the Master Fund over the last 5 years, the projected risk profile of the Feeder Fund belongs to third category of the synthetic risk and reward indicator (SRRI=3).

The synthetic risk and reward indicator corresponds to an integer, used to rank the Fund's risk profile on a scale of 1 to 7, based on increasing level of volatility. The lowest category does not mean that the investment is riskless. This indicator aims to offer the investor an overview of the fluctuations in Fund unit price based on historical performance. Historical data used to generate the indicator cannot constitute a guarantee on future risk profile.

Performance of Feeder fund

Monthly performance was -3.12% for Raiffeisen Sustainable Solid – Feeder fund during March.

Global debt markets experienced a sell-off in March, with yields increasing across the board, but EUR corporates continued to outperform their USD counterparts at a market index level. Equity markets were down sharply at the start of the month before recovering some losses by the month end. The primary cause of the broad-based weakness was concerns about US economic growth, driven by tariff uncertainty.

It should be noted that the rate of return varies depending on market conditions and the unit value may be volatile, so it is not static or always increasing, but may also fall because of changes in market conditions. Volatility is a natural part of investment funds, and its total elimination is impossible.

The investors of Raiffeisen Sustainable Solid fund and all funds managed by Raiffeisen Invest are advised to have the longest possible investment horizon to benefit from an optimal return on investment and thus in the medium or long term to be able to recover the negative effects, which are created in the short term.

We do encourage investors to maintain their investment by not changing their investment objective of staying in fund driven by the unusual situation created by market developments, because in this way they will not risk getting out of the fund at the wrong time for their investment

Commentary of Master fund management on financial market developments during March

The international stock markets performed significantly negatively in March. Despite the defense and infrastructure package announced in Germany, the uncertainty surrounding the introduction of tariffs and the associated concerns of a slowing US economy with continued high inflation weighed on the markets. Bonds trended roughly sideways in March. However, the continued favorable risk sentiment towards corporate bonds was strikingly positive, further narrowing the yield gap to government bonds. The fund also performed negatively in this environment.

The fund makes broadly diversified investments in bonds and equities from responsibly operating companies and countries.

Developments in the coming months will primarily depend on further central bank measures, economic growth in the US and Europe and US trade policy. Geopolitics will also be closely monitored.

Data on fund return referring to the past is only indicative and does not represent a promise or guarantee of the fund return in the future. All other numerical examples are used for illustrative purposes and analysis of historical data and should not be used by investors to draw conclusions for the future.

Potential investors should read the Feeder Fund Prospectus and Fund Rules. Raiffeisen Invest and the fund's sales force do not guarantee a certain return on the fund.
